Served Without Shells. Americans," says a writer in the serving boiled eggs which is apt to disconcert the English visitor. It is told of Thackeray that at his first American breakfast in Boston he ordered this dish. Among the array of things placed before him was a goblet filled with something that he failed Le Roy, N. Y. to recognize, and he also missed the eggs. In answer to his inquiry the waiter said: 'That's them in the glass.' Well, but where are the shells?" asked Thackeray. 'You didn't ask for the shells,' was the prompt reply."

Chinese Women Study Medicine. The Woman's Medical school at Shanghai awarded diplomas to six graduates lately. The school was founded a little more than three years ago by funds furnished by Li Ping Shu, president of the Chinese town council. The principal of the school is a Chinese woman who took an advanced educational course in both Canton and Hong-Kong. During the last year there were 30 students, Each of the six graduates read an essay, two of them in English.
